Rusty Runner is the name of two toy plastic race cars in two series released by TPCi, a division of Hasbro. The cartoon series from Hasbro Studios aired on Discovery Family. and was named in reference to Mazda's famous long nose Kei-car Rusty was first released in the Rescue Heroes series in 2002, the first series Rusty appeared in. It was followed by the Mom's Dug Out series and the Chef's Recap series. The success of the cars has resulted in two live-action film series, Rusty Rides Again (2003-2005) and Rusty: Race to Rebirth (2006). Followed by a television series Rusty Rides Again also ran in 2008-2009. Rusty Runner series Rusty's Rescue Heroes Rusty, a green racing car with a long nose and blue wheels, is one of the coolest characters for toddlers and kids to play with. As his body is shaped like an alligator, and he has three eyes, he is a representation of the classic fast cartoon style. Rusty is designed to look like his cartoon counterpart, however his tail is shorter and made out of plastic, his mouth is pointed upwards, and he has plain wheels. As is the case with all Rescue Heroes figures, Rusty comes with a bunch of accessories to help save the day, and he can save even larger figures with his special Rescue Heroes booster. Use the invention to activate the special mode in Rusty's rescue move, and he'll supercharge his powers and double his fuel tank. He will then deliver emergency supplies to help save the day. The rescue heroes figures include Rescue Heroes Rusty, Brave Rusty, Cheerful Rusty, Terribly Rusty, and Puzzling Rusty. Rescue Heroes - Rescue Heroes Rusty's ready to save the day! If it's fire, brave Rusty is always on the job. He'll put out the flames to help rescue any figure or vehicle you stack up with. If it's natural disasters, Rusty'll keep all those kids out of trouble by letting you see out his back windows. Sometimes disaster can sneak up, so Cheerful Rusty in the back does his best to keep you upbeat. He's ready to dish out hugs and more laughs to help you focus on the fun of playing Rescue Heroes. Rusty - Rescue heroes are great like they are, but what if there was something cooler? Something by HERO? That's where the Rusty comes in. Pre-size and super-size the rescue heroes figures to create the ultimate
