I tried a few other things as well such as using an online converter such as this one ( but it gets more and more difficult the longer the text is. A: You may do it in two steps : Replace each consecutive two characters pair (e.g. char1, char2) with one character (char1char2, char2char1) Replace each string of the form [char1][char2] (e.g. [A,A], [B,B], [C,D], [E,E], [F,F],...) with [char1char2] The second step is necessary since the first one does not allow to generate short sequences by joining the last letter of one string to the first letter of the next one (it works with two consecutive letters only, and among the sets {A,A,A,A} and {C,C,A,C} only {A,C} is possible with the first rule). With the example in your question, the

Anthony Davis and Kyrie Irving are two of the NBA's biggest superstars in their primes, though Davis would have to be traded to become a free agent. But that's unlikely and it's no secret the Knicks don't have a ton of interest in Irving. In the end, it will be Irving who leads the bid if Davis does choose to leave New York.

NEW YORK -- The Knicks were quick to let John Calipari know they weren't interested in the Kentucky coach, but that doesn't mean they're out of the running for him. Calipari has recently begun naming one of the top candidates for the job at the Final Four in April, and sources told ESPN.com that he has narrowed down his list to Oklahoma City's Billy Donovan and Michigan State's Tom Izzo and Spartans coach Tom Izzo. "I would say he is very well considered. He's in great demand and that's all I can tell you," one source with knowledge of the process told ESPN.com on Sunday. "He is a hot name, and as much as he says he is not, he is a hot name." There is no timetable for Calipari's decision, but sources say the Final Four is a logical place for him to make his announcement, as he has done before when he planned to leave Cincinnati after the tournament. An interest in both Donovan and Izzo would be interesting, given that the two schools -- mainly Oklahoma City -- are close to Kentucky. Calipari
