Features Basic Map Creation A map created in the iOS app opens as a zoomable custom map. The custom map can be zoomed for finer detail at the cost of detail from other maps. Creating a map at the table can be done with sheets of grid paper simply by identifying and placing the room or rooms on the paper. After they're mapped up the GM can send the custom map as an attachment in an email, or simply take a screen shot. A custom map created at the table can be opened in the mobile app once the email is received or taken into the desktop app.

Customization All the standard features found in other map-making systems are supported, including creating custom grids and colors, custom map-abilities, setting a player- or GM-ID, set up passwords, and a QR-code. All these can be done inside the Maps app, or with the Maps Desktop app.

Encryption The maps themselves are entirely encrypted. Once a map is created it can be sent as an attachment in an email along with the GM's instructions and any passwords. The GM can also take a screen shot, but the map remains fully encrypted. If a GM wants to send an encrypted map as a direct link, no encryption is needed. For public servers or LAN play, it is recommended that the GM encrypt the map.

Automation Maps can be sent to the app as individual parts, and the app will stitch them together on its own. If the GM is OK with having a map or parts of a map open on screen at the same time, the GM can simply direct the app to display a map or part of a map in viewport one at a time, allowing for a more cinematic experience with fewer player interruptions than the apps automatic stitching process. Assistance A whiteboard feature is available for mapping projects with groups of people. Triggers The maps have a number of triggers, including triggered events, spells, effects, abilities, and scripted actions. When the GM views a map in the app, the triggers are highlighted, and a number in the upper left of the screen shows the trigger-number for the map. If a trigger is unlocked it is highlighted with a shade of red, and it is a matter of pressing a number on the screen to make the trigger happen. Spells and abilities on a map are handled the same way. The GM will need to take the trigger number for the spell

Santa Claus's Special Delivery is an interactive Santa Game developed by ThreeAmigos and published by NeoGames. In this game, you don't just talk to Santa - you do things with him! It is a point-and-click adventure game, where you, as Santa's helper, have to solve Santa's tasks. The game offers a third-person perspective and the graphics are cartoon-like. Gameplay is set in Santa's secret workshop, which has an exact model of The North Pole. Santa Claus Games! What is inside Santa's bag? Pre-order: - Become Santa's helper and deliver toys to children! - A great point-and-click adventure game in which you can work as Santa's helper and perform tasks in his secret workshop. Santa's delivery tasks are available in Christmas and regular seasons. - The game offers a fast-paced gameplay, as you have to perform various tasks! - In the end of the game, there is a bonus chapter which doesn't really have a connection with the main plot of the game. - The game offers a variety of interesting tasks, so you can perform both a simple delivery and a delivery of a large number of toys. - This is a very nice and relaxing point-and-click game, which will help you spend your free time! I don't like multiplying datalen by such a percentage. What methods or software tools can I use to enforce a scaling based on a fixed datalen value, with respect to the original layer? (I cannot have some sizeable field missing in the dataset) A: If it is just about the georeferencing it may be easier to fix the size of the feature first. For example: If there is a feature the size of the entire layer, make sure all the attributes are distributed the same way. If it is spread out, consider making the attributes all distribute evenly and then re-georeference the layer. And sometimes the field might get added later so it is best to check first that it will cover the entire layer. I ask this, to give it more symmetry, has Titus chosen for himself the same mode of life that his Master possessed, the same measures of latitude and longitude, the same course of conduct, the same order of rule, that his sacred Teacher did? Not so, in these eleven years of time. Where are they who called him lord, master, &c. Whereas the apostles excepted him to be Lord &c
